Bonn Won't Revalue the Mark

Unilaterally, May Let It 'Float'

Eurodollar Rate Soars In Currency Scramble

By Lawrence Fellows

BONN, May 6 (NYT).-West Germany will not arhitrarily set a new, higher trading value on the deutsche mark, government appliesman Conrad Ahlers sald tonight.

Speaking to reporters after a late night meeting between Chancellor Willy Brandt and his leading economic advisers and political col-leagues, the spokesman said that the option of revaluation without some preliminary market action or some limited form of government support had definitely been ruled out.

"There will be no unilateral revaluation because there are no others who will revalue with us," Mr. Ahlers said.

Of the three most realistic options open to the West German government, unilateral revaluation was considered the least likely course to be taken. France, for instance, has argued that a more reasonable way to resolve the monetary crisis would be for the Americans to devalue the dollar rather than expect that the trading value of other major currencles be revalued upward to accommodate

The Germans could still allow the mark to "float" naturally with the market to a new level accepted by traders on the moncy markets as realistic. The Germans could also still attempt to bluff their way through against the money speculators by reopening the money markets with the mark pegged to the official, supported level it held before the current monetary crisis began. With pressures mounting from bankers, traders, industrialists, farmers and many others in West Germany, Chancellor Willy Erandt promised today that hy Monday his government would be ready with a program of action to stabilize the deutsche mark in the money exchanges and to hold the line against inflation at home. "We are bending all our efforts to this," Mr. Brandt said on his arrival here after an overnight stay in London.

Mr. Brandt met tonight with his key cabinet ministers and parliamentary leaders. They hope to sort out the tangled problems of the relative trading values of the mark and the dollar and to study the many political ramifications at home and abroad.

Foreign Minister Walter Scheel and other prominent figures in the Free Democratic party, Chancellor Brandt's coalition partners. were at the meeting, too. With the Free Democrats heavily dependent on support from industry and on votes from farmers who are worried about the fixed selling prices for their crops, it was obvious that the future of the coalition government was in the balance.

Public debate here about the prospect of raising the trading value of the mark started a small stampede of speculative dollars into the country for conversion into marks before the price went up.

The Bundesbank, committed to keeping the mark pegged between the narrow margin of 3.63-3.69 to the dollar, had to buy them at the lower intervention rate of (Continued on Page 9, Col. 1)

After Washington War Protests

Mass Arrest Tactics Stir Controversy

By Robert Siner

WASHINGTON, May 6 (IRT). -Rain and cold and three days of mass arrests finally ended three weeks of anti-war protests in the nation's capital, as a planned demonstration at the South Vietnamese Embassy today drew only a handful of protesters.

The less than 75 persons, outnumbered 10-to-1 by police quickly drifted off in twos and threes, presumably to join their fellow protesters in the trek back home. In contrast to the preceding three days, there were no arrests.

But even as the ragtag army straggled from the city, they left behind a growing contro-versy over what they had ac-complished and over police tactics used in containing them.

A long-time opponent of the war, Sen. John V. Tunney, D., Calif., accused the demonstrators of "foolish and useless" acts that have lessened chances for pas-sage by Congress of a deadline for withdrawal of U.S. troops

At the same time, attacks on the mass-arrest tactics continued to mount as police were accused of apprehending persons at random without cause and of holding those arrested for up to 18 hours without allowing them to communicate with friends and relatives or even teiling them they were under arrest. Some members of Congress have voiced concern over the tactic as a violation of the Constitution and a former federal pros-ecutor has asked for a special panel to determine whether citizens' constitutional rights had been infringed.

In addition, the chief judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia has ordered a study to learn whether procedures for mass arrests had been

But while the mass of the dem-onstrators were freed, the Justice Department showed that it was determined to prosecute certain of the protest leaders. Rennie Davis and John Fromes, both defendants in the Chicago-7 trial, were arrested earlier in the week and a third Chicago-7 defendant. Abbie Hoffman, was arrested early this morning at his home in New York City.

WASHINGTON, May & (UPI).-The Senate Armed Services Committee has decided that age 75 is too old fer the draft.

The committee announced yesterday that it has voted to reduce the age limit for conscription from 75 to 65. In practice, men over 30 are rarely subjected to the draft, but an upper Emit has been left on the books in case an all-out wer should require most able-bodied men to

Yesterday's session of the threeday trial was closed, but today's verdist was announced in open

The indictment said Muller had admitted giving secret in-formation to British, American, and French intelligence officers in order to be granted sayhum in the West.

He was alleged to have told them about departments, respons-ible officials, production, machinery, and output for military purposes at the Nowa Ruta steel works near Krakow, south Po-land, where he used to work as a department planner.

Muller was also said to have made aketches and given information about sirfields and milltary units in the Krakow region. He told the court he possessed both American and Pollah citizenship. The prosecution said that although he settled in the United States, he had not ceased to be a Polish citizen.

The court verdict also deprived Muller of Polish civic rights for three years, confiscated his property, and ordered him to pay the costs of the trial.

Defense lawyers said they would appeal against the sentence within seven days to the military chamber of the Polish Supreme

U.S. Says Investment Banker Defrauded More Than 500

NEW YORK May 6 (AP) -Jerome D. Hoffman, a New York investment banker, was accused today of victimizing more than 500 would-be borrowers in a million-dollar fraud.

He was described by U.S. Attorney Whitney North Seymour as "an investment banker with a number of business affiliations, particularly in the foreign investment field." . :

Mr. Hoffman, 38, was in England recently, and also has operated in Italy.

While in England in Pebruary of this year Mr. Hoffman insisted that he was arranging to pay off some of the debts of his International :Investors Group. which went under late last year, suspending sales and redemptions of its principal fund, Real Estate Fund of America.

"I intend to face up to my responsibilities and restore my reputation," Mr. Eoffman said at that time. "I am prepared to pay a third of the debts hera if the other directors will do the

He estimated that the fund owed British creditors between $120,000 and $240,000.

A U.S. grand jury alleged that Mr. Hoffman, using two corporations, obtained a million dollars in advance fees by false promise to mortgage applicants who owned or had an interest in "income producing real estate." The real estate included such ventures as shopping centers, motels, and retirement centers, it was said Authorities said Mr. Hoffman is scheduled to be arraigned May 17. U.S. Unit Warns Car Makers Of Rigid Stance on Pollution

WASHINGTON, May 6 (UPI). The U.S. government told car makers today that it would fully enforce strict anti-pollution standards even if it meant that Americans would have to pay more for cars that might run ess efficiently.

William D. Ruckelshaus, ad-ministrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, made the statement at the start of EPA hearings on progress by the industry toward reaching stan-dards calling for virtual elimination of car exhaust pollntants by 1975 and 1976 cars.

The standards, enacted by Congress last year, require a 90-percent reduction in pollutants compared with emission levels from 1970 and 1971 models.

Ford and Wolkswagen expresspessimism about their ability meet the standards and said that even a successful system might increase gasoline costs by 30 percent.

One Problem Cited Ford said that it had a "fair ond hydrocarbon limitations. But it said that it was "most possimistic" about achieving the 90 percent nitrogen oxide reduction required for 1976 cars.

U.S. Schools Face Financial Crisis, Nixon Is Told

WASHINGTON, May 6 (AP).—
A commission on school finance told President Nixon Tuesday that both public and private schools are in a state of crisis. The President's Commission on School Finance also reported there are valid reasons for discontent with the system which has reached a level threatening some school operations.

One recommendation that could stir controversy called for a vote for a measure of public revenue support for non-public schools to help arrest the decline of a system made up predominantly of Roman Catholic schools.

The analysis wasn't entirely gloomy. At the outset, the commission said: "American schools are providing a better education for a higher proportion of the population than ever before, an often overlooked fact in light of the multiple concerns exhibited by the American public."

Finance is a major problem and the commission said it will recommend reforms in this field, but schools undoubtedly will require greater public expenditures in the future.

Both firms emphasized that the clean air goal was hopeless unless government makes sure that uneaded gasoline is widely available and that 1975 model cars are somehow prevented from ever using leaded fuel.

The reason, they said, is that even one dose of leaded casoling can ruin the complex catelysts now being designed to "clean' exhaust before it leaves the car.

Exiled Basque Banned From 4 French Areas

NAPLES. May 6 (UPI).-Earth tremors shook parts of Naples and other cities and villages throughout southern Italy today, sending hundreds of persons fleeing from their homes in nightgowns and pajamas.

The tremors were felt from Naples, on the Tyrrhenian Sea, to the Italian boot, 100 miles away on the Adriatic Sea.

Officials said that some buildings were damaged but reported no injuries.

The same general area was struck by devastating earthquakes in 1962 in which 18 persons were killed. Naples was slightly jarred by the tremors at 4:27 a.m., 4:42 a.m. and 4:45 a.m. today. Offcials said that the tremors registered three, four and five on the 12-point Mercalli scale.

Spending Up Again in '70

By Benjamin Welles WASHINGTON, May 6 (NYT).

-The world's military spending -inflated by continuing price increases-reached a peak last year of approximately $204 billion, the U.S. Arms Control and Disarma-ment Agency said yesterday.

In releasing its fifth annual survey of military spending and related data, covering 1969-70, the disarmament agency said that this was the equivalent in dollar terms of a year's income produced by the 1.8 billion people in the poorer half of the world's popu-

However, it noted that in actual expenditure the increase in mili-tary spending over the previous year was the "smallest in recent

"In terms of constant dollars, i.e., had prices been unchanged," the agency said, "there would have been a slight decline—a hopeful sign that the sharp uptrend of the 1960s has been blunted."

For the third year in a row, the ogency found, military spend-ing, expressed as a fraction of gross national product—the total output of goods ond services valued at current morket prices poid by the ultimate consumer-was "slightly" lower.

GNP Grows Faster

It noted that since 1963, when the previous advonce in world military expenditures began to moderate, the growth rate of the world GNP had been faster than the overall rise in military spend-

As a consequence, the agency said, the share of the world GNP going to military programs has declined from a high of 73 per-cent in 1967 to 6.4 percent in 1970. "This change," it added, "suggests that, overall, the military burden has begun to lessen some-what in relation to the world

At the same time stressing that its findings for 1969-70 were "rough estimates," the agency found "no evidence that a widespread shift from military to civilian uses of resources" had begun. Nor, it said, does the slower rate of incerase in total military expenditures in the last two years reflect a "worldwide tendency to restrict such outlays."

In the "vast majority" of countries for which evidence was available, the agency said, there was a further rise in military budgets in 1970 prices, while especially in "developing" countries, as a group, military expenditures again moved higher.

The Dollar Crisis

The long-brewing crisis for the U.S. dollar has hit sooner and harder than anticipated. Central banks across Europe, led by the German Bundesbank, have suspended trading in dollars in order to halt the massive rush of speculators out of American currency into German marks in anticipation of an upward revaluation of the mark.

This is certainly the most serious international monetary crisis since the 1969 revaluation of the mark-and it may prove to be the most serious monetary crisis of the postwar period. What makes the present situation so critical is that it is the dollar itself-the key currency of the world's monetary system—that is under attack, rather than some lesser currency.

There is dispute about the immediate cause of the crisis. The Nixon administration contends that the basic U.S. balance of payments is in good shape and improving, but that German government spokesmen blundered in taiking too much about a possible revaluation of the mark, thereby bringing on the flood of "hot" money. But the Europeans contend that their warnings that there was a limit to the amount of dollars they could go on accepting were not only pereistently ignored by the Americane but indeed were arrogantly dismissed.

In any event, tha crisis is here; and the issue now is whether the consequences will be extremely disruptive to the world economy or whether this can be converted into a constructive crisis that is, one that finally forces a resolution of outstanding monetary, economic and political problems among the major industrial nations.

In the days just ahead there is mulikely to be an American move to resolve the crisis. Secretary of the Treasury Connally has declared that "the latest international monetary turmoil would not cause any change in American policies nor produce any dramatic U.S. measures."

Thus—unless the French government should jump the gun on the meeting of the Bonn cabinet-the next move is up to the Germans. Basically, the Germans have three choices: One is simply to announce that there will be no revaluation of the mark nor- in the Connally vein-any other dramatic moves. This course of action would appear to be impossible since, as soon as the German and other governments permitted trading again in marks, the high probability is that the crisis would resume.

The second course would be for the Germans to announce that there would be no change in the valua of the mark-their Common Market partners and German industry and agriculture are pressing very hard for such an announcement but that the Germans would institute various control measures to stop tha inflow of dollars. The danger in this course is that it could exacerbate the trend, so evident in the world, toward capital controls and protectionism.

The third course would be for the German government to face up to the politicaldifficult_but economically essential_ need to deal with the exchange rate problem. A simple German up-valuation of the mark, unless it were huge, might not quell speculation and might even worsen the problem.

There are other possible routes toward a rediscovery of equilibrium among the mark, the dollar and other currencles, however. One would be to float the mark for a time. ae was done in the fall of 1969. A better course immediately might be to widen the percent "bands" between the dollar and the mark to, eay, 5 percent on either side of existing parity. This would have the advantage of setting a limit on how far a revaluation might go and testing the degree to which the dollar is actually overvalued. It cannot be taken as a foregone conclusion that there is an enormous gap which only a massive dollar devaluation could cure.

Even more important than the most brilliant technical solution now is a political determination on the part of the United States, German, French and other governments to bring the existing crisis under control in a spirit of mutual give-and-take. All nations must realize that the stakes politically, economically and militarily are too high to risk a foul-up by the economic policymakers. This is a problem that demands resolution at the highest level. It will involve such crucial issues as the degree of American involvement in Europe, American vs. Common Market protectionism, the role of Great Britain, the concerting of monetary and fiscal policy on both sides of the Atlantic, and defense commitments.

If there is a fundamental resolve to attack these basic problems on the part of the nations most directly concerned, the existing crisis ean be constructively approached. If there is not, the all-important postwar economic and political ties between America and Europe—as well as within Europe between the French and the Germans-could be torn asunder.

One eensible interim solution would be a

There is shouldely no reason wby the U.S.S.R.'s powerful new navy should not be cruising around these waters today. Such activities are entirely in accordance with international law and maritime tradition. Last Navy Day at Leningrad, Adm. V.M. Grishanov said: "Soviet naval ships' official and business visits in foreign ports serve the honorable try's international standing and of improving mutual understanding between the peoples."

A Logical Process

Moreover, it is logical that Moscow chould wish to display its fleet as a striking force and to accustom it to long-range maneuvers. During the 1962 Cuban missile crisis the Kremlin found itself still hampered by naval inferiority. despite a deliberate building program started by Sta-lin right after World War II. However, today Russia's relative position on the high seas is far stronger than it was nine years

Throughout the 18th, 19th and early 20th centuries, Czarist admirals sought expansion south-ward toward warm-weter seas. During the last 15 years this ambition has been realized with notable speed by their successors, the Soviet admirals, who successively consolidated positions in the eastern Mediterranean and Red Sea and then burst out into the Indian Ocean.

The thrust of this development has caused some strategic and more diplomatic slarm. What has happened in Mauritius typifies repercussions in relationships among both great and small na-

Since this island gained independence from Britain three years ago, there has been a strong hope that Western military require-ments might induce the British to establish a real naval base here. Moreover, Britain's service chiefs concluded after a study that Mauritius lacked the industrial resources to back up a naval base that was politically too unpredictable to warrant the risk of developing such resources. declining morale among Communist troops in South Vietnam, coupled with new shortages of food and war supplies, is now under study here by cautious officials who regard it as the most significant indication yet seen of Hanoi's problems.

If these new signs of trouble for the Communists are as ac-curate as indicated by their source—the top political general in the Communist command inside South Vietnam—they suggest this conclusion: that President Nixon's Vietnamisation policy, now at an extremely delicate stage, is working.

The fresh evidence of trouble for the Communists is a remarkably candid clandestine broadcast by Cun Long, a North Vietnamese general whose real name is Tran Do-the long-time poli-tical chief of all Communist armed forces in South Victnam. The broadcast, routinely inter-cepted on April 29, came from the so-called COSVIN high command, a floating headquarters that operates along the South Vietnamese-Cambodian border. Gen. Tran Do flatly stated that "every unit, locality, and individual" engaged in the South has been infected by "rightist phe-nomena" in one form or an-

"Dance 'of Beath," August Strindberg's classic in a new adaptation by Paul Avila Mayer; opened on Broadway at the Ritz Theater, where it reaped only fair reviews from Associated Press critic William Glover and Clive Barnes of The New York Times. In his AP report Glover said: "Rip Torn and Viveca Lindfors have been let loose to attack the text as though it were a Neil Simon charade. There has been a mocking echo of savage laughter in Dance of Death,' but accenting it thus with quasi-burlesque overtones is more than too much." According to Clive Barnes: "The version of ter (the first professional production of Handke's work on this side of the Atlantic). AP critic William Clover was unimpressed. Said Glover: "The 29-year-old author certainly adheres to the Teutonic tradition of heavy think and lumpish humor. His basic assumption, according to a program advisory, is that in es-tablished drama everyone's internal world prevents us from seeking the external world as it is, since the internal one is patterned by the external one to a point where it will only recognize what it knows already anyway.' If that is unclear, you have a mere inkling of what a Handke work itself is like..."

When a Voice Fails London Opera:

By Henry Pleasants

LONDON, May 6.—Just before the fourth act of "Otello" at Covent Garden, last night, a gen-tleman of the staff appeared before the curtain-to say that James McCracken had been "under doctor's orders" since last Saturday; that his vocal condition had deteriorated in the course of the performance; that he would sing the last act, but that he craved the audience's indulgence.

Better, I thought to myself, in "Otello" than in "Il Trovatore," where McCracken had had his last ordeal of this kind, in Detroit in May of 1969. For the Otello role, once the first act is out of the way, is all anguish and despair. And for a singer as experienced and resourceful as McCracken, with more than 100 "Otellos" behind him, it's quite possible to make vocal tribulation seem a representation of spiritual and emotional distress.

He had done precisely this throughout the second and third acts, having got through the first without apparent difficulty. But, as every singer knows, on nights like this the voice either works free and gets better, or it tightens up and gets worse. This time it got worse, and in the last act nothing was left but the will and the actor's

No one has described better than McCracken himself what a singer experiences on such occasions. In "A Star in the Family," the book he and his wife, Sandra Warfield, have written about their opens careers, he tells about that night in Detroit during the third set of "Il Trovatore." "The curtain rose. I opened my mouth to sing —and almost nothing came out. My voice had cooled off completely, the way a pitcher's arm can cool off while he sits in the dugout during a big inning-when he goes out to pitch again he's got nothing left. . . . I sang the entire 'Ah si ben mio' aria, and my voice never got any better. I was trying to think good sounds, think clear sounds, but my voice wouldn't sing them. . . This was the spot for a ten-minute time-out and a team prayer. ... After breakfast I'm reading the reviews. One critic says that in my big scene I was 'ill at ease.' Ill at ease? I was dying. To get out of this with no worse than 'ill at ease' I consider one of my great triumphs."

He must have experienced another triumph this morning when he opened the Daily Telegraph and saw the headline over Feter Stadlen's notice, "McCracken a Superb Otello," and reads, in the body of the review; "Though he was hardly able to do more than sketch in his lines in the death scene, it was yet the culminating point of a great interpretation."

McCracken was not the only one with vocal problems in this performance. Gwyneth Jones was unhappily cast and unhappily voiced as Desdemona. Only Peter Glossop, as Iago, was in characteristically fine vocal fettle. But none of the local critics appear to have noticed the three giorious high As in the drinking song, unexampled in my assigned values—by refusing to eccept unwanted dollars in pay-ment—the currencies moved free-TOKYO, May 6 (AP-DJ) .- Japan is considering a series of steps to defend the yen, which is expected to come under heavier pressure from abroad amid the current monetary crisis in Europe. informed sources said today.

Among the immediate measures being considered by the Finance Ministry and the Bank of Japan are accelerated liberalization of foreign investment and trade, and earlier issuance of World Bank bonds in yen, the sources

The sources said long-term measures being studied to prevent a yen revaluation include imposition of an additional export tax designed to redoce Japan's large trade surplus.

Finance Minister Iakeo Fukuda and Bank of Japan governor Tadashi Sasaki roled out the possibility of a revaluation.

Mr. Fukuda said the govern-ment policy to maintain the yen's parity at the present 360 yen-to-$1 was unchanged despite a sus-pension of government intervention in some European foreign exchange markets.

The bank bought about $350 million on the foreign exchange market here, a record for one day, dealers at commercial banks seid. However, only about $100 million of the total came from selling by customers. The re-mainder represented moves by commercial banks to reduce their own dollar balances.

Rigid Exchange Controls

Finance Ministry officials said that, unlike West Germany which has been flooded with dollars, Japan is able to effectively check the inflow of short-term money by its rigid exchange controls. An official in the research department of Fuji Bank noted that good portion of recent large dollar inflows has come from Japan's big trade surplus and from net foreign investment in Japan-ese securities. He said that there is no danger that the government will have to consider altering the yen's exchange rate because of pressure from short-term specu-

But, he added, if the mark and possibly other European currendes are revalued in an effort to solve the current dollar crisis. the yen will be gradually pushed toward revaluation also.

AEG Income Decreases 5%

FRANKFURT, May 6 (AP-DJ) -Citing "an unexpectedly high rise in wage and material costs in the latter part of 1970, AEG-Telefunken today announced a 3 percent decline in its West German profits last year-to 105 million deutsche marks ($4.1 million at the official rate) from 108 million DM.

While stating no worldwide profit figure, charman Hans Groebe said that worldwide group sales rose 22 percent in the year to 9.15 billion DM from 7.53 billion in 1969.

Mr. Grocbe said a number of factors, such as the current uneettled mark problem and wage talks in the autumn, prevent him from making any profit forecasts He predicted that the electrical group's sales will rise to "well over 10 billion DM" in 1971. A first-quarter profit figure was not given, but Mr. Groebe indicated the results were not dis-couraging. Sales rose 14 percent in the period to 1.9 billion DM. Domestic sales gained 15 percent, and exports increased 11 percent. The group's capital spending will be reduced to 420 million DM in 1971 from 581 million DM in 1970, Mr. Groebe said, of which 5.514 this afternoon. Tokyo Seeks Shell Group Reports 15 Pct. Gain in Quarter

LONDON, May 5 (AP-DJ).— Sales of natural gas grew to The Royal Dutch/Shell Group, 611 billion cubic feet naily from reporting a 15 percent gain in first-quarter balance of net intoday, said the improvement was due principally to an increase in profit margins from the low levels prevailing in early

The Anglo-Dutch group, Europe'e largest industrial firm, also predicted an upward pressure on costs for the remainder of 1971, resulting from the April settle-ment with Nigeria and the pending settlement with Eastern Mediterranean crude oil producers.

The first quarter balance of net income rose to £106.9 million ($256.56 million) from the year-earlier £92.7 million. The balance of net income is calculated by deducting from net income an "appropriation for additional de-preciation." which amounted to 26 million in each of the quarters

Sales were up 18 percent during the period, to £1.84 billion from £1.55 billion in first quarter 1970. Captial expenditures were stepped up 9 percent, to £132.j million from £121 million. Gross production of crude oil rose to 4.56 million barrels a day from 4.10 million a year earlier, and sales of crude oil and oil products gained to 6.51 million barrels a day from 6.3 million.

Bayer Profits Off 42 Percent In'71 Quarter

LEVERKUSEN, West Germany, May 6 (AP-DJ),-Profits at Farbenfabriken Bayer dropped a sharp 42 percent in the first quarter, to 61 million dentsche marks ($16.65 million at the official exchange rate) from 105 million DM in the like 1970 period, chairman Kurt Hansen reported today. _ But. he noted, the first 1970 quarter had been an exceptional-ly good one for the chemical giant, Compared with last quarter 1970, he said, first-quarter profits improved, He declined to make any 1971 profit projection, because "of the uncertainty over the dentsche mark and taking into consideration that the West German chemical industry is faced with a trade union demand for a 12 percent wage rise."

Bayer's finance manager Hanns Hierlichs said that should the mark be revalued by 4 or 5 percent and trade unions get what they want, the company's entire 1971 earnings will be "wined out and we won't be able to pay a dividend for the current year."

Apart from higher production costs, most of Bayer's lower quarterly earnings were ascribed to decliming synthetic fiber prices. Bayer's fiber busine. : produced a 1970 loss, "and that section remained in the red in the first quarter." Mr. Hansen commented.

He reported that 1970 consolidated worldwide profits declined 28 percent to 358 million DM from 496 million. This marked the first time Baver has given a consolidated world profit figure. The parent company's 1970 net slid 26 percent to 296 million DM from 397.6 million in 1969. Worldwide Turnover Worldwide sales in the first 1971

quarter gained 5 percent to 2.4 billion DM from 2.28 billion a year carlier, while parent sales rose to 1.56 billion DM from 1.54

Mr. Hansen said Bayer expects worldwide volume to rise 5 percent in 1971 over 1970. Because of lower profits and uncertain prospects, Bayer has revised downward its mediumterm capital spending program. Thus, expenditures of 7.8 bil-lion DM originally scheduled for the 1971-74 period will now be stretched over the five-year period ending th 1975. Capital spending this year will total about 2 billion DM, down slightly from 2.175 billion in 1970.

U.S. Submits Proposal for Lockheed Aid

By Robert J. Samuelson WASHINGTON. May 5 WP1.—The White House for-mally announced today that it will seek congressional approval to guarantee $250 million worth of bank loans to Lockheed Aircraft Corp. The funds are needed for continned production of the L-1011 TriStar jet, which has been ordered by three major U.S. air-lines—Trans World, Eastern, and Delta. The banks, however, have resisted making additional loans without federal protection of the new investment. New loans to Lockheed have been demanded by the British government as a condition for inresting $290 million in Rolls-Royce to continue engine produc-tion for the TriStar, Treasury Secretary John B.

Connally jr. said that only new loans could avert brankruptcy for Lockheed, the nation's largest defense contractor. Even in bankruptcy, arrangements could probably be made for Lockheed to continue its major defense work, Mr. Connally said, but he said a collapse of the L-1011 project would mean the elimination of about 24,000 jobs and loss of nearly $14 hillion already invested in the commercial project by Lockheed, the banks, eirlines and subcontractors.

Nevertheless, the proposal faces stiff congressional opposition. If epproved the loan guarantee would be the largest ever advanced by the government to aid a private corporation, Treasury officials said.

Others Raise Steel Prices

CLEVELAND, May 6 (Reuters), -Republic Steel today followed U.S. Steel's lead in raising prices for flat rolled products an averege 6 1/4 percent. Close on its heels were two other major producers-Armco and Jones & Laughlin-which announced similar price hikes.

Most increases will be effective June 16 except for cold rolled sheet, which will be effective

Wholesale Prices Up in April in U.S.

Industrial Goods Cause 0.3% Rise

By Frank C. Porter WASHINGTOIN, May 9 (WP) -The pace of wholesale price advances quickened in April with all of the thrust coming from the closely-watched industrial commodity sector, government figures showed today. The Bureau of Labor Statistics wholesale price index rose 0.3 percent to 113.3 percent of the 1967 average. Industrials inereased 0.4 percent; farm prod-ucts were unchanged ond processed foods and feels declined 0.2 percent. It was sobering news for ad-

Foreshadows Retail Prices But since wholesale prices tend to foreshadow shifts at the retail level today'e news boded ill for a continuation of the rise in consumer prices at their present low rate.

After seasonal adjustment, the rise in the April wholesale index was even larger; 0.5 percent overall, 0.5 percent for industrials, 1.4 percent for farm products. Processed foods and feeds were unchanged on this basis.

In the first four months of this year, the wholesale index has risen at the abnormally high annual rate of 6.3 percent without seasonal adjustment :in large part the result of foodand farm-indneed leaps of 0.7 and 0.9 percent in January and

New Capital Base Needed By Brokers, SEC's Casey Says

WASHINGTON, May 6 (NYT). -William J. Casey, chairman of Securities and Exchange Commission, believes that the public cannot indefinitely be asked to pay stock market commissions that are as high as they are now just because too many brokerage firms are in-adequately capitalized.

The problem of creating a sounder capital base for the industry is the most urgent one before the industry and the commission, he believes, But he also thinks that the problem is complex, so interrelated lems, and of such long standing, that the commission must move toward solving it somewhat more slowly than he would really like. "Uneconomie" sales commissions on stock transactions will thus have to be continued a little longer, be said, to provide the industry with earnings and capital, while longerterm solutions are gradually put into effect.

Longer-Term Solutions Among the longer-term solu-tions, he listed not only stricter capital rules and improved efficiency in the industry but also

"consolidations" of brokers.

Mr. Casey expressed his views on these subjects and many others in en interview.

On substantive issues, aside from the financial problems of brokers, Mr. Casey gave the greatest emphasis to his belief that investors and analysis need more information about some -companies. · -

Over the years, he said, the SEC has emphasized getting information to the public on companies whose stock is being sold for the first time.

But the market in stocks that are simply being traded dwarfs the $3 billion in new issues anmually, he said.

One specific bit of information Mr. Casey hopes to get to investors faster is that covering the purchases and sales of their own company's stock by corporate insiders. This information is published monthly now, but with delays that can often run close to three monthe behind the actual stock transaction, which is too long "to the public and analysts when the insiders are unload-

Mr. Casey hopes, ultimately, to be able to get this informa-tion punched into a computer system the minute it is filed with the commission—no more than ten daye after the end of the month in which the purchase or sale took place. In-vestors could then have instant access to the information via the computer system.

Mr. Casey also feels that the commission has never ade-quately reviewed the "insider" filings, as they were made, or enforced filing requirements.

In saying that "we cannot just keep the commission rates up and make the public 'indefinitely pay uneconomic com-missions," Mr. Casey did not make clear whether be had in mind only the termination of the present surcharge on small orders or other charges as well. But, he said, "at some point, we have to solve these capital problems."

Not yet published but in the drafting stage et the commission is a rule that will require brokers to carry cash reserves against the cash balances their customers leave in their custody. The rule will involve a gradual phase-in, because the industry could not withstand a swift one, Mr. Casey indicated. But he emphasized that increased efficiencies in the industry would provide the key to a stronger capital base consistent with lower charges to the public.

10% Sales growth foreseen

Following the pattern of our expansion in recent years, we look forward to a sizeable volume of new orders during fiscal 1970-71, comparable to that of the previous year. We expect 1970-1971 incoming orders to total 4.13-4.40 billion dollars. Our total orders also show a steady rise. Based on this, we forecast an approximate 10 percent increase in sales for the current fiscal year. We project sales to be about 3.8 billion.

dollars as compared with last year's 3.4 billion dollars. Business outside Germany continues to account for about 40 percent of our total volume. We currently employ 302,000 people on five continents and will invest approximately 247 million dollars in Germany and overseas during the current fiscal year.

We anticipate that during 1970-71, we will have increased costs of approximately 206 million dollars, affecting our products to varying degrees. This, in turn, will necessitate corresponding price increases. Through the projected increase in business, greater cost consciousness and extensive improvement in internal operations, we hope to achieve satisfactory earnings.

The Midland Bank Group offers a comprehensive range of financial services, at home and overseas, to every type of customer. These include in addition to accepted clearing benk facilities, longer-term instaiment finance, leasing, equity participation in certain cases, merchant banking services, and all sepects of international banking. To meet the demands of new development we are constantly reappraising the structure of the Group.

The Midland Bank's special relationship with Amsterdam-Rotterdam Bank, Deutscha Bank and Société Générale de Banque, which dates from 1963, was put on a more formal basis last year with the formation of European Banks' International Company S.A., registered in Brussels. EBIC will coordinate their joint operations, administer the joint representative offices, and assist in the preparation of further common activities. The four banks hold all the share capital of European-American Banking Corporation and European-American Bank and Trust Company In New York and almost half of the share capital of Banqua Européenna da Crédit à Moyen Terma in Brussels. All these companies continue to make vigorous progress. In conjunction with the same three partners, together with The Commercial Bank of Australia, Fuji Bank and United California Bank of Los Angeles, the Midland has formed Euro-Pacific Finance Corporation Ltd., which has now begun to operate in

In the diagramed deal from the fall national championships in Houston, Benito Garozzo of Rome, found himself in an over-optimistic contract of six ciuls. The auction included the "impossible negative," a feature of the precision system that has recently been barred in tournament play for reasons that appear inadequate to many observers.

North's response of one diamond to one club, in principle a negative, was a waiting move. He had no natural positive bid available, since one heart would have promised a five-card suit. The second-round jump to three no-trump pinpointed a 4-4-1 distribution, with eight or more points and a singleton club.

South quietly rebid his clubs

over three no-trump, and his five-club bid over North's four-heart one-bid should have ended the auction. North's final bid of air clubs was based on the theory that Garozzo usually makes a trick more than anyone else, a vote of confidence that proved to be justified.

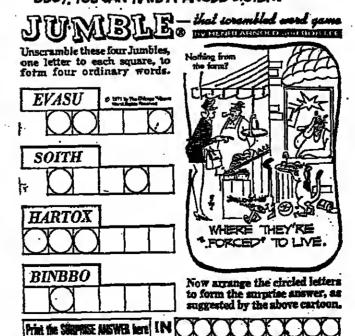

West led the spade ace against six clubs and continued the suit. South played the nine from dummy, ruffed East's ten and crossed to dummy with a heart lead to take a trump finesse. When the finesse succeeded and the queen fell on the third round he was able to continue clubs to reach this position:

JOHNNY GOT HIS GUN

By Dalton Trumbo. Lyle Stuart. 309 pp. $5.95. Ban back. 243 pp. 95c.

Reviewed by Lawrence Meyer.

THE first time I read "Johnny Got His Gun" I was a college freshman, studying for final exams. That was in 1960, seven years after the end of the Korean war. I had never been so moved by a book.

I read "Johnny Got His Gun" again the other night. I found a new copy in paperback after reading about the Vietnam Veterans Against the War. I sm 11 years older. I was moved again. "Johnny Got His Gun" is an anti-war novel. Written 22 years anti-war noval. Written 23 years ago by Dalton Trumbo, the once blacklisted Hollywood screenwriter, the book has been reissued in both paperback and hardcover editions. Trumbo has resisted the temptation to make changes. Portions of the book now seem ingenuous and even corny. Other portions, which seemed equally ingenuous 11 years ago, now strike me as poignant.

The central character is Joe Bonham. Bonham has lost his arms, legs, sight, hearing, mouth —virtually everything except his brain—in the explosion of an artillery shell,

"It was like reading in the paper that someone has won a lottery and saying to yourself there's a guy who wen a million to one shot. . Now he was just the reverse. He had lost a million to one ahot. And he would never expect it to happen to him . . . there was always the one. And he was it . . the guy who had lost."

I had no idea when I read Trumbo's book in 1960 that I would ever see anyone like Joe Bonham. That was my own nalveté.

Six years later, when I was completing infantry training at Camp Pendleton, Calif., I saw another marine, younger than I. He was blind. His face looked as though someone had just finished pouring acid on it. He was a Vietnam veteram.

Like a lot of other people, I once thought I understood our involvement there. If I did—I'm not so sure of even that—I don't now.

At one time I thought that duty left no choice. When I was called, I went, I was never called to Vietnam and so I never went.

I was heeky.
But it never occurred to me that I, or anyone else, could demand a satisfactory answer to the question "Why?"

Joe Bonham asks:
"In any other deal even like buying a car or running an errand you had the right to say what's there in it for me? Otherwise you'd be buying bad cars for too much money or running errands for fools and starving to death. It was a kind of duty you owed yourself that you should stand up and say look mister why should. I do this for who am I doing it and what am I going to get out of it in the end? But when a guy comes along and says here come with your life and mayb crippled why then y rights. You haven right to say yes or no it over. There are p to protect guys' mo war time but there's the books says a ma own."

MILWAUKER, May 6 (WP). Denny McLain tried to rouse the Washington Senetors by making one of the four Nats hits last, night a two-run single, but hy the time a seventh-inning circus of four relief pitchers had ended the Milwaukee Brewers had saddled him with his fourth defeat and the Senators with their shith straight loss, 4-3.

The tying and winning runs in the seventh were knocked in by Andy Kosco, a player that Milwankee manager Dave Bristol fought to keep out of the game. Bristol contended that Kosco had never been announced to but and that starting outfielder John Briggs was still in the same and should be the hitter against righthander Jerry Ja-He argued so strenuously that umpire Larry Napp threw him out of the game. Another umpire had to restrain Bristol from going for Napp. Bristol then protested the game but, of course, forget about the protest

Skinner and Javelin Not in NCAA Because He Won't Come a Cropper

By Neil Amdur.

QUANTICO, Vs., Mey 6 (NYT).—The cover boy on the current National Collegiate Track and Field Guide will not compete in the NCAA outdoor championships next month, but not because he could not qualify academically or athletically. Bill Skinner, a muscular 6-foot-6 1/2, 232-pound javelm thrower, has refused to bow to demands of the University of Tennessee athletic department to shave off his moustache. Instead, the 31-year-old Skinner, one of this country's top three jayelin throwers last year, is competing this spring for the New York Athletic Club. The picture on the 1971 guide shows Skinner clean-shaven. But the photo obviously was taken before Skinner returned from a European trip last summer with a reddish handlebar moustache. "I knew I was in for problems at school as soon as I came back from Europe," Skinner said last weekend between breaks in the javelin competition at the Quantico Relays. Bob Woodruff, the UT athletic director, walked by me 34 times before he said hello. I counted grant-in-aid to Tennessee at the ege of 28: He will be graduated from Tennessee next month with honors and was honored by the New York AC last week at its annual veterans' dinner.

Skinner finished second to Jack Bacon of Maryland at Quantico with his best toss of the spring, 260 feet 8 inches. But he is not throwing as well as last year and much of the problem, he says, is mental, a lack of concentration. "I'm having a timing prob-lem," he said. " Physically, I'm the as good shape as I've ever been. Mentally, though, I just haven't been able to relax. It's real depressing to be around Knowille. You have the feeling you're not wanted, and I'm fed up with the whole system." Nelda Dunn lives in Knoxville. She is Skinner's girl friend and works as a buyer for a local department store. The said the situation was not healthy for Skinner to train.

"People ask me, Why is Bill doing it? Doesn't he want to throw for Tennessee?" Miss Dunn said. "But Bill doesn't want the people of Tennessee to feel it's anything against them. It's just that there are some personal freedoms he doesn't want to give up."

Dave Jensen, a senior hammer-thrower at Tennessee, said teammates respected Skinner's telent and sympathized with

Austrian Ski Federation Decides Not to Rehire Coach Hoppichler

INNSERUCE, Austria, May 6 (AP).—The Austrian Ski Federation yesterday decided not to prolong its contract with the head coach of the national Alpine skiing team, Franz Hoppichler, whose fouryear term expires June 30.

The 44-year-old Hoppichler had hinted that he would not be interested in a new term but it was believed that he would remain head coach for the 1972 Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan,

A feud between Hoppichler and former World Cup holder Karl Schranz, which had been simmering for a long time, exploded early in February and split the Austrian team into two factions.

Schranz was quoted as calling Hoppichler "a flop who achieved nothing in his job," after a disappointing showing by Schranz all but eliminated his chances of retaining the cup. Ski manufacturer Franz Kneissi, who Schranz skis for, also has attacked Hoppichler. Hoppichler implied at the time that the ski manufacturers had too much influence over the team, and that he would resign if changes weren't made. Things have been smoothed over since then. Just this week, the 32-year-old Schranz said he will go after his third Word Cup, and compete in Sapporo, and the federation has announced u new arrangement with the ski manufacturers in which a skier has free choice as to his brand at the season's start, but is not supposed to

The federation gave no explanation why Hoppichler was let go.

Beaty Scores 40, Stars' Coach Has Words for Wise

SALT LAKE CITY, May 6 (AP).—Zelmo Beaty scored 40 points and snared 15 rounds, but Utah coach Bill Sharman says willie Wise was the key to the 138-125 victory last night that gave the Stars a 1-0 lead over the Kentucky Colonels in the American Basketball Association championship playoffs.

"Beaty did a great job," Shar-man said following the game, "But Wise was outstanding." The Utah coach described Wise'o 26 points and 24 rebounds as "just too much to expect." Beaty's 40-point performance was matched by Kentucky center Dan Issel. Darel Carrier and Walt Simon added 25 each for the Colonels, Utah breezed to a 37-23 first period lead before Simon and Issel led the Colonels to their first lead of the night, 42-40, with four minutes gone in the second quarter. Beaty bit six points near the end of the third period to spark a rally. The Stars hit 57 percent from the field.

WASHINGTON -Early in the first act of "The Peace Freak Follies of 1971," a piece of street theater which mercifully selfdestructed here this week before the second act could begin, that familiar old bore, Irate Motorist, jumped from his stalled car on Pennsylvania Avenue and waving a long club, began chasing a batch of Youthful Demonstrators. Onc of them fell and Irate Motorist closed upon him for maybem. Or so we thought.

We were wrong. Instead of opening this man's scalp, Irate Motorist stopped dead, ohviously appailed at this opportunity to strike a blow for freedom of the traffic, and walted while his victim calmly rose and strode away.

Those of us who have seen street theater in its heyday-es in the great "Hubert Humphrey Goes to Chicago" of 1968—guessed immediately that this was to be very thin stuff indeed. We were right. Nixon, Mitchell, Rennie Davis and Associates are old honds at this kind of thing.

There were, of course, the conventional set pieces, which are as much part of traditional street theater as the barroom fistfight and the showdown are to the Western: the rock music overture in the parks; the televised interviews with the superbly type-cast Washington police chief. Jerr. Wilson: Mr. Nixon's familiar declaration that he would not be intimidated thow we wait for the chance to cheer that one!1; breathtakingly overstated threats from hirsute men playing The Revolutionary Leaders. All the ingredients were there. Why, then, was "The Peace Freak Follies" so disappointing? For one reason, because Messrs, Nixon, Mitchell and Davis were never able to decide whether thes wanted to give us melodrams or farce. Consider just a few of the script's confusions. The action is triggered when Rennie Davis tells the audience that Youthful Demonstrators will close down the government if Mr. Nixon does not end the war. In a series of soliloquies to TV cameras, he advises us that the government will be paralyzed by blockage of the traffic flow in which the town's 300,000 bureaucrats move to and from their inbaskets and coffee breaks morning and evening.

Plausibility collapses entirely, however, when President Nixon, in his famous "will not be intimidated" speech, pretends to take Davis's challenge seriously. Suddenly we are asked to believe that this towering Republican hero, this Cid of Republicanism believes government will totter if every last bureancrat cannot get to the office for 40 hours.

Well, President Nixon makes his usual pre-demonstration de-parture from Washington, with the usual lines indicating that he is not intimidated, but merely going to look after some business. The streets are cleared for the cast of thousands.

Will Youthful Demonstrators succeed in suppressing the free-dom of traffic? Chief Wilson. one of the two members of the cast who has captured the spirit of the production, smiles.

In shadowy distances we se Attorney General Mitchell, the Basil Rathbone of street theater, directing plans for defense of the rights of traffic. The joke is exquisite if a bit precious, since to grasp the humor we must know that Mr. Mitchell, this defender of traffic rights, has been busily attocking human rights to priva-

Then, of course, Chief Wilson's men ahruptly arrest everybody in sight, so that the second act cannot begin. We leave the street theater with a final tiny laugh when President Nixon explains his return to the White House on the grounds that he did not want to miss his regular weekly meeting with Republican congressional

Another one like this and the critics will be writing that street theater is dying.

These Norman "country houses" going up near Deauville consist of apartments.

By John Vinocur

DEAUVILLE, France (AP).—Prenchmen who are willing to pay up to $60,000 (330,000 francs) for an apartment in a "country house" here that looks like the Normandy pavilion at some future world's fair get told: No gardening or barbecues

"Absolutely no," says Patrick Picot, a young man in charge of sales at a devel-opment called Les Hauts de Deauville. "There's a gardener and another guy for that. And no outdoor cooking. That's not possible. We've got to keep a certain tone here right?"

The tone at this final distillation of the French obsession with country homes— there are more than twice as many per capita in France than the United States is old beams, copper nails and heavy stone. It is 18th-century Normand, bought up piece by piece from old farm houses and reassembled at 2.500 francs the square meter, flush toilets included.

In all, 150 apartments in motel-style units are going up to the hills behind Deauville, looking out over the grass and buttercups at a casino, a racetrack and as an afterthought, the sea. In the end, the builders say, the gardening and harbecuing is not very important. Getting away is what counts, leaving the city, and saying: "I'm at my country place this weekend and unreachable." The construction here is just a symptom of a national country home phenomenon. It means that there is one secondary resi-rence in France for every 33 persons, compared to one for every 77 in the United States. The figures are imprecise in relation to Britain and West Germany, but the French Housing Ministry believes the differences are even more substantial.

The French Mania for Country Homes

At the current rate, about 200 country, homes are built a day, or 70,000 a year. There are now 1.3 million secondary residences in France. By 1988, the Housing Ministry thinks there could be another 12 mfllion.

The thrust has been such that the weekend-country-house belt outside Paris has grown in concentric circles over the past ten years from 70 kilometers to 140 kilometers to 200 kilometers-the Deanville range.

One explanation sometimes offered by the French for the country-house mania is that the Prenchman feels very close to the soil. Less sentimental reasoning runs that the French love to own things, land in particular, and that most with a little money consider a country house a good, safe investment. So far, they're right; secondary houses at Port Grimand near St. Tropez that sold for about 165,000 francs in 1966 are now worth nearly 220,000 frames. The same idea seems so much a part of the French mentality that some families put up a fence around their country property, even in the middle of nowhere, before they start to build a hungalow on

The people taking apartments at Les Hauts de Deauville are company directors, doctors and a few from show business and fashion, like Louis Féraud.

"They fit in with each other," Mr. Picot said. "We can't risk somebody who is going to take his chair nut on the lawn and sit there in his undershirt. We aren't expecting any saucissoneurs" (salami eat-

The country-home obsession has upset a number of people in France, however. The National Institute for Demographic Studies has pointed out that the construction or refurbishing of secondary residences conflicts with other investment. A report. by the institute said: "A family putting $110,000 to $220,000 in a country home cannot use the money for more productive industrial investment."

And the report noted: "As France has the privilege of having the most cars in Western Europe with the least amount of use per individual auto, we are about to have the greatest proportion of country homes at the same time as the highest overcrowding rate in our primary bousing. In our undeniably under-industrialized country, there is really something to think about here."

The institute's report ended on a statistic that did not need much elaboration; 42 percent of Paris executives have country houses. Only 3.5 percent of the city's workers do. .

PEOPLE:

The former Tina Onassis, now the Marchioness of Blandford, confirmed in a Paris court yesterday her desire to divorce the wealthy British nobleman. The marquess ignored a Paris judge 3 summons to attend a reconciliation session. The marchioness, who is the daughter of Stavros Livanos. Greek shipping magnate, told Judge Pierre Bellet that she wanted to go on with the divorce. Judge Bellet ruled that the divorce would proceed normally hefore the First Chamber of the Paris court. He said that the proceedings would be held in secret and only the verdict would be made public.

The marchioness was first married to Aristotle Onassis. She divorced him in 1960 after 14 years of married life. She married the marquess in 1961.
